GUEST COMMENT:

Census 2010: It's In Our Hands, Colorado

by Susan Kirkpatrick, Executive Director
Colorado Department of Local Affairs

As the Executive Director of the Colorado Department of Local Affairs, I get many questions about the upcoming 2010 Census. What is it? Why should I fill out my questionnaire? Is it safe? Is it really that important? My days are spent working with local governments and communities, and in addition to the questions I'm asked, I also see many examples of communities and lives changed by the results of the Census. I feel strongly about how important the Census is, and I'd like to share some information with you.

As required by the U.S. Constitution, the U.S. Census Bureau has been conducting population counts since 1790, and the decennial census has taken place every 10 years since then. In fact, it's mandated by the U. S. Constitution that the population be counted once every decade. The Census counts every person living in the US — every race, every ethnicity, citizens and non-citizens alike. This count is conducted mostly through questionnaires that are mailed to each housing unit, although in certain communities Census Bureau employees go from home to home collecting information. When a household doesn't return their questionnaire, the Census Bureau follows up with additional mailings and visits.

Most of us have heard of the Census, but not everyone knows why it is so important, or how the data collected helps Coloradans and their communities. Each year the federal government allocates from the federal taxes we have paid more than $400 billion to states and communities for important programs like

GUEST COMMENT:

Census 2010: It's In Our Hands, Colorado

by Susan Kirkpatrick, Executive Director

schools and libraries, road improvements, parks and health services. This funding is allocated in large part based on Census data. In Colorado it is estimated that we receive $880 per person counted, or a total of $4.27 billion per year. These are dollars that Colorado needs, which is why it's so very important that each household take the time to complete and return its census questionnaire.

In addition to being important, the Census is also easy and safe. There are just 10 questions, and it will only take about 10 minutes to fill out and drop back in the mail. I know that safety is also a big concern in today's world. We seem to get warnings daily about issues like identity theft, and it's only natural that Coloradans would be concerned about what sort of information the Census Bureau is collecting. The only information collected on the questionnaire is your name, your address, your race and ethnicity, whether you rent or own your home, the number of people currently living there and their relationship to the householder. They do not ask for your social security number. Once the information has been collected, it remains safe. Your answers are protected by the US Constitution, and no government agency, court of law, or even the President can get access to your information. In fact, all Census Bureau employees are subject to a $250,000 fine and/or 5 years in prison if they share any of your information.

The 2010 Census is easy and safe, and I cannot stress enough how important it is to the beautiful state of Colorado. Achieving an accurate Census count in 2010 will help to define the future of our state. Every single one of us needs do our part, so when that questionnaire shows up in your mailbox next March, please complete it and mail it back. Colorado is counting on you!

Above is an opinion piece by Susan Kirkpatrick, executive director of the Colorado Department of Local Affairs, encouraging Coloradans to participate in this year's 2010 Census. In Colorado it is estimated that we receive $880 per person counted through federal programs, or a total of $4.27 billion per year, so full participation is extremely important.

PERSPECTIVE by Jon Heaton, Tribune editor

John Caldera, head of the Golden-based Independence Institute, has launched a smear campaign in an attempt to turn public opinion against current Democrat efforts to improve healthcare.

One of the Coors family's radical-right political front groups, the Independence Institute has for decades either started or supported every attempt in Colorado to reduce taxes on the wealthy.

This time, they are paying millions for a state-wide, computerized calling campaign to get Coloradans to oppose something Caldera calls "Obamacare."

The true goal is, of course, to chip away at the majority the Democrats hold both in Congress and in our own State legislature.

In our column last week, we referred to Taborites and Tea Partiers as abolitionists.

We've been advised that the title "abolitionist" has a very narrow meaning in America, applying specifically to those who worked and risked everything for the abolition of slavery in the years before the Civil War.

Once they were well-established, though, the new party lost its appetite for struggle and, by the 1870's the Republicans were ready to end Reconstruction.

By the 1900's the Democrats were making room for progressive movements to improve the health, education, and work conditions for ten of thousands of European immigrants.

At the far right of the Republicans are the Taborites (the Coloradans such as Doug Bruce who got stifling anti-tax measures inserted in the state constitution).

Most of the members of these groups are ordinary citizens who are unaware of the millions of dollars the likes of the Coors family and other wealthy backers of the Independence Institute are pouring into the Tea Party fraud to dupe its members.

That means these fat cats are starving our governing bodies by convincing ordinary citizens that our boards, commissions and legislators are our enemies, even though the true enemy is the greedy rich and their corporations.
